

Understand

Underline the examples of alliteration in this passage.

Bhavesh looked up at the milk-white sky.
Winter was finally here.
The once grey clouds
had now emptied, sending snow
silently down.

The air was cool, not cold, and

though the melting snow landing on his skin sent shivers through his body, it was not unpleasant.

But soon, the weather began to change.
As Bhavesh watched the snowfall, a small breeze began to grow in force before it suddenly became a wild wind whipping at his clothes and face.
Instead of settling on the ground, the snow began to dance in the air. A storm was coming!

A howl erupted as the wind whistled through the trees. Bhavesh was showered with pieces of broken branch and he turned before rapidly racing into the house.

Explain

Explain, using your words, what alliteration is.
Create an example to explain your definition.

Language
Features

Alliteration

Test

Underline the words which show alliteration in these sentences.

The cat climbed past the cello and the celery.

Hurting, I humbly held my head high.

There was a buzz of flies in the air.

I rowed stealthily through the silent sea.

The cold certainly sent a chill through my veins.

Complete these sentences using words which add alliteration to the word in bold.

Nikita lost two

Bavina gathered

Amit munched on

Which consonant sound is repeated to create alliteration in this sentence?

Will watched as the warm wind waved the willow branches without warning.

Challenge

Create sentences with alliterative phrases to describe these images.

Apply

Imagine that you are in this street. How do you feel? Write a passage about what it is like to be here. Use alliteration to highlight your feelings.

Extra challenge:

Can you include adjectives in your writing?

[illegible]